The CareLeaders Learning

NVR and relationships

NVR Essentials

One course. Your whole team using NVR.

Non-violent resistance training that helps your whole team respond as one when a young person's behaviour escalates.

11pm. A young person is kicking the office door.

What does your team do next?

Without a shared approach

- Some shout
- Some back off
- Every shift responds differently
- Restraint becomes the default

After NVR Essentials

- ✓ Everyone stays calm and present
- ✓ The same response on every shift
- ✓ Resist the behaviour, never the child
- ✓ Repair the relationship afterwards

Why it matters. The Children's Homes Regulations and the Fostering National Minimum Standards expect de-escalation. Neither says what to say at 11pm. This course does.

The evidence. Honest about the evidence: early trials with parents are encouraging, research in care settings is still limited, and we say so on the day.

Who it's for

Children's homes

Support workers, team leaders, registered managers

Foster and kinship care

Carers, supervising social workers, team leaders

Early help

Family workers who coach parents

Commissioners

Deciding whether NVR fits your service

- No NVR knowledge needed
- Mixed groups work well
- Up to 60 people

By the end of the day, people can

1
See both sides

Describe an escalation from the young person's side and the adult's, and how shouting or backing off feeds it.

2
Choose your battles

Sort behaviours into those to resist, those to negotiate and those to let go.

3
Know the seven pillars

Explain non-violent resistance (Haim Omer, 2004), the seven pillars and the three dimensions of adult presence.

4
Link it to the standards

Show how NVR supports the Children's Homes Regulations and Standard 3 of the Fostering National Minimum Standards.

5
De-escalate without giving in

Use cold-iron lines, delayed responses and baskets in a hot moment.

6
Plan repair and resistance

Plan a reconciliation gesture, an act of resistance and a first NVR session for your team.

The 7 pillars of NVR

Parental presence

Connection before correction. Calm, persistent adult presence sits over all seven pillars.

1 De-escalation

Stay calm and safe in the hot moment, and deal with it later.

2 Baskets

Choose the one or two behaviours that matter most now, and let the rest go for a while.

3 Reconciliation gestures

Small acts of care, offered whatever happens, that say the relationship matters.

4 Acts of resistance

Calm, planned action that stops adults being controlled by aggression.

5 Supporters and self-care

No one does this alone. Adults act together and in the open.

6 Announcements

A written commitment: we will not use violence, and we will resist it.

7 Sit-ins

Calm, persistent presence after an incident, made safe for residential care.

Non-violent resistance was developed by Haim Omer. The course covers every pillar, and the NVR Toolkit has a section on each.

Option 1: face to face, a 6-hour day

10am — Morning: parts 1 and 2 — Lunch — Afternoon: parts 3 and 4 — 4pm

4
Leading it in your team
Adults are stronger together.

A plan for your first team session

You leave with a tool ready to use on your next shift.

Option 2: live online, a 2-hour NVR keynote

For teams who can't give a full day, or want to try NVR before committing to it. One live talk on Teams or Zoom, with chat and Q&A.

The keynote

Reece's story runs all the way through, from the 11pm door to the repair the next morning.

1. Presence, not control
2. Strike when the iron is cold
3. Resist the behaviour, never the child
4. Adults are stronger together

Your say in the chat

Questions to the audience throughout the talk.

- What does your team do at 11pm?
- Which behaviour would you let go?
- Who could stand with you?

Live Q&A

Questions answered live at the end. Ask about:

- A young person in your service
- How NVR fits your policies
- Where to start with your team

Afterwards Practise each tool afterwards in the NVR Toolkit, with the workbook and the recording.

How we teach: Story, Theory, Action

Every Care Leaders Learning course, workbook and online lesson follows the same three steps.

Story

A real moment from care, told from the young person's side.

Theory

The thinking that explains it, with honest evidence.

Action

Something to practise and use at work the next day.

In this course One story runs through the day: Reece, 15, in a children's home. Reece is a composite, drawn from real experiences of care.

Why choose The Care Leaders Learning

Training built by people who have lived in care and people who have led services.

Lived and professional experience

Founded and led by Luke Rodgers BEM, a care experienced leader. Every course is written by people who have been in care and people who have run, redesigned and inspected children's services. Your team hears both sides.

Inside national policy

We led the national engagement on England's new fostering standards for the Department for Education. Our training reflects what the standards expect.

Learning that carries on after the day

A workbook for life, the recording and 12 months online. Your team keeps going back to it.

Honest about the evidence

We say what the research shows, and where it is still limited.

From care leaver to care leader

Your facilitator

Luke Rodgers BEM

Luke went into care at 10. He has spent his career inside children's services as a consultant, trainer and keynote speaker, and is CEO of The Care Leaders.

He has worked with councils nationally, including Durham County Council, where he put NVR into 11 children's homes and trained 120 residential staff, online and face to face.

He led the national engagement on England's new fostering standards for the Department for Education, so he knows what the standards expect of the adults around a child, and where NVR fits.

He was a Knowledge Equity Fellow at Saïd Business School, University of Oxford, and was awarded the British Empire Medal in 2018 for commitment to children and families.

On the face to face day Luke leads every part. Online, he gives the keynote and answers your questions live.
